

Professional Training to support Environmental Sustainability in the Construction Industry.

ISYS

ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS (EMS) AUDITING

This one-day course trains a team of in-house auditors to help maintain an Environmental Management System (EMS) that is essential for you to meet ISO 14001 auditing requirements.

The course content complies with ISO 19011 and meets all internal auditing training requirements for ISO 14001 Certification.

IT ENABLES DELEGATES TO:

- Understand the principles and practice of environmental management
- Interpret ISO 14001 requirements into practical actions
- Recognise environmental risks and impacts
- Plan and conduct an effective EMS audit
- Compile and present audit findings and conclusions

CONTENT:

- Merits of alternative EMS audit strategies
- ISO 14001 and most common non-compliances
- Audit tools and techniques
- Gathering and verifying audit evidence
- Audit reporting and follow-up action

WHO WILL BENEFIT FROM ATTENDING?

Company supervisory or management staff members forming the internal EMS auditor team. No previous auditing experience is required, although delegates often have a background in managing, or auditing, quality and/or safety systems.

OPTIONS

The course includes a group classroom-based exercise of a simulated audit on a construction company case-study. Alternatively, client companies can arrange the practical auditing of a 'live' construction situation, using their own audit reporting documentation.

COURSE OUTLINE

The aim is to provide tools and techniques enabling the audit team to verify EMS implementation and effectiveness.

Professionally conducted audits resulting from this training will safeguard ISO Certification, while improving dialogue with external assessors.

COST - £850, plus VAT (excluding venue and refreshment costs (if required) and tutor expenses).
